1. Attendance

Hanyang has a strict academic regulation that class attendance of at least 80% is required to earn a passing grade. As it is an intensive short-term study program, attendance takes a very important part in evaluation for the course and students who are absent more than three classes can be given an "F" grade for the course. If there are any inevitable excuses such as health problems, students should inform the professor prior to class and submit the proof documents later.

2. Course Load

At Hanyang University one (1) credit equals fifteen (15) contact hours. All academic courses are three (3) credits each with total of forty-five (45) contact hours. All elective courses are one (1) credit each with total of fifteen (15) contact hours.

It is strongly recommended to think of plan B with course registration in case students are not able to register specific courses they primary desire due to the limited seats or course cancellation.
